Teacher Kidnaped?

Turning up in a New Orleans theater dressing room after federal and Louisiana state authorities had begun a wide search for her, Miss Virginia Switzer, 26-year-old McHenry, Miss., school teacher, missing for a few hours, declared she had been kidnaped by two men. Her absence from home, plus the receipt of an alleged ransom note to her parents demanding $30,000 caused friends to fear she had been abducted.

Display Gets
Wide Interest

SLIDES SHOWING DEPAUW UNIVERSITY ATTRACTS CROWD AT CENTRAL NAT. BANK

A display that is attracting unusual attention is gathering crowds about it daily in the lobby of the Central National bank. An automatic projection machine shows 72 colored slides of DePauw university. Campus buildings, student activities and college life in general is depicted. These slides, all in natural colors, were made from photographs taken on the campus. Old Gold Day, May day, athletic contests, class room work, dormitory life, are all shown. The machine is one that was used in the Hall of Religion at the Century of Progress Exposition last year and was purchased by the university.

The slides were arranged by Dr. Ezra M. Cox, new field secretary and alumni secretary for the university and will be used for publicity purposes. The slides will be taken into high schools to show prospective students and will also be used for alumni meetings. The machine was placed in the foyer of the Claypool hotel during the state teachers convention and attracted a large crowd there. No one entering the Central bank fails to stop and see at least a few of the slides.

KLEINSMID IS GIVEN DEGREE
BY DR. OXNAM

PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WAS FORMER MEMBER OF DPU FACULTY

SPECIAL CONVOCATION HELD

Gobin Memorial Church Filled To Greet Former DePauw Teacher Honored With LL.D. Degree

Dr. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at a special convocation held at DePauw university today. Gobin Memorial church was filled to capacity by students, faculty members and townspeople to see the former DePauw faculty member honored.

An academic procession conducted Dr. KleinSmid to the church where he was the principal speaker for the service. Following his address, Vice-President Henry B. Longden presented him to President G. Bromley Oxnam who conferred the degree. This degree had been voted the California educator last June but due to an automobile accident in which he was injured, he was unable to attend DePauw's 1934 graduation exercises.

In his address, Dr. KleinSmid discussed world conditions showing that nearly every nation was beset by fears of oppression from without and discouragement and dismay from within. He said that the world needed to emphasize courage. The world was rapidly becoming international minded until a few years ago and has since reverted to a program of narrow and exclusive nationalism.

This may be necessary, he stated, to bring us to our senses and to realize that the problems of one nation have relation to the problems of other nations. The world, he said, is jittery with fear. Where will the panacea be found? Will it be found in our own "brain trust" and cabinet? Will it come from some strong individual as a dictator?

Dr. KleinSmid quoted the late Kaiser of Germany as stating that the trouble with the world today is the fact that it has no statesmanship. He named the prime minister of Holland who had kept his country out of conflict, and Mussolini who had successfully given his country a program, as being the only two really great statesmen in the world. The speaker cited the failure of the disarmament conference and of the London conference to help the world. In the last analysis, he concluded, the world must have a great religious revival to give it courage, a religion that is pure and undefined.

Last Rites For
A. R. Chenoweth

SERVICE HELD FROM MASONIC TEMPLE FOR PROMINENT LOCAL MAN

Funeral services for Allen Raymond Chenoweth, well known Greencastle business man, and Republican candidate for county auditor, who died Sunday, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Masonic Temple. The Rev. Robert T. Beck, pastor of the First Christian church, assisted by the Knights Templar, was in charge. Interment was in Forest Hill cemetery.

Pall bearers were Lyle Green, A. B. Hanna, A. J. Duff, Charles McGaughey, R. P. Mullins, and R. C. Moore.

The services were largely attended by relatives and friends.

WAR VETERANS TO HOLD

The Spanish American War Veterans will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday evening at Elmi's Inn, commemorating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Earl Fisk Camp, No. 48 of the U. S. W. V. The Auxiliary and wives of the Veterans will be guests. An interesting program has been arranged.

G. O. P. MEETING

The Republicans will hold a meeting at the Maple Heights school, Thursday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 o'clock. Albert Williams, candidate for prosecutor, will be the speaker. Other county and township candidates will be present and introduced. Everyone invited to attend.

"CRAZY POLITICS" TO BE PRESENTED THIS WEEK

"Crazy Politics," will be presented in the high school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock. The presentation is being staged by Phi Delta Kappa and the joint Parent-Teachers associations of the city. Approximately 100 people are in the cast, including a group of women singers who portray singing politicians. All indications point to a packed house for both performances.

The play was written especially for community production and is known as the "master stage show." It has an interesting plot, flashy musical numbers and hilarious comedy.

The plot centers around mistaken identity. A woman candidate has been nominated in a small town to defeat the opposing faction of underworld racketeers. The candidate, Mrs. Courtney Van Dyne, and attendants fail to appear. Pat O'Donnell, a wise cracking newspaper reporter, impersonates Mrs. Van Dyne. Dr. Jeffery, a Centerville physician, takes place of the French maid, Judge Fisher, a middle-aged attorney, masquerades as the secretary, Mrs. Hinson. Jasper Watson, a sophisticated college professor takes the part of the twelve year old daughter, Minnie.

It is the hope of the Universal Producing company that "Crazy Politics" will be as successful as "The World's All Right" which was staged here last season by the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity.

BOARD STUDIES
LABOR DISPUTE
AT CLEVELAND

SEEN AS GROWING THREAT TO PRESIDENT'S PROJECTED INDUSTRIAL TRUCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30, (UP)—Facing discouragement from all sides, the national labor relations board today undertook settlement of the Cleveland chain grocery dispute which administration leaders viewed as a rapidly growing threat to President Roosevelt's projected industrial truce.

John A. Hartford, head of the Great A. & P. Tea company, left New York for his conference with the labor board, insisting that talk was futile, that the company's decision to abandon its Cleveland business was final. Union officials left Cleveland for the crucial Washington conference, insisting that negotiations were doomed to failure unless the company agreed to "100 per cent unionization."

The board will sit down at the conference table at 2:30 p. m. today with these opposing sides, neither one of which seemed predisposed to give an inch, hoping to pacify their differences. Watching from the sidelines, officials of the new deal saw threats of a nation-wide struggle between the Great A. & P. largest chain grocery operators in the United States and the world, and union labor.

An added danger was the possibility, if not a probability, that if not settled, the controversy would spread quickly to the other great national chains. Already meat cutters had gone on strike against the A. & P. and another chain in two Wisconsin cities, and union leaders were talking of making their fight against the A. and P. effective in all Ohio and Wisconsin.

The probable solution to be pressed by the labor board was an agreement of both sides to submit their differences to arbitration and a promise by the company to resume its business providing the controversy could be settled.

A hopeful sign was seen in the prompt acceptance by officials of the company of the invitation by the board to come here for a round table meeting with union officials. In many recent labor disputes an initial difficulty has been met in getting participants to sit down together.

The Key Man In The Picture

Samuel Insull, fallen utilities magnate, who is the principal defendant in the mail fraud case being tried in the federal court in Chicago, wanted to see how the news of the celebrated trial was being sent out to the world. He went to the room from which telegraphers send out the news stories, and, having once in his career worked as a telegrapher, he had to sit at a key. Insull is shown seated at left.

SIX BURN TO DEATH

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 30—(UP)—Six persons were burned to death today when fire of undetermined origin destroyed a two-room home on what police described as "Squatterland" in the Dry Run district here.

The dead: Ralph Lane, 38, a millworker; an unidentified woman about 40, and Lane's four children, two girls and two boys, ranging from 8 to 16 years in age.

The fire was discovered by a watchman at the Johnson China Company plant.

Advised by neighbors that the Lane children were believed in the structure, firemen broke down the charred sides of the home and found the bodies of the children in bed.

In another room they found the bodies of the man and woman, erect in chairs.

Former Matinee
Idol Kills Self

LOU TELLEGEN, EX-SCREEN AND STAGE STAR, COMMITS SUICIDE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30, (UP)—Handsome Lou Tellegen closed his spectacular stage and screen career today, a suicide.

A heroic figure on the stage, a romantic screen lover and husband of famous women, Tellegen ended his life on a high dramatic note.

Shaved cleanly, face powdered and hair immaculate as for the footlights, he stabbed himself in the bathroom of a wealthy friend, wrapped his robe about his bleeding body and then permitted himself to slump to the floor.

He died without a word. A butler in the home of Mrs. J. P. Cudahy, member of the Chicago packing family, who had befriended him, found the actor barely breathing. He died shortly after.

After tasting the acclaim of world wide audiences, Tellegen had fallen into financial straits. Additionally he was desperately ill of cancer of the bladder. He was 51 years old.

In brighter days as a matinee idol, Tellegen had been in succession the husband of the Countess Jeanne de Brouchere, Geraldine Farrar, operatic star; Isabel Craven Dilworth, known on the screen as Nina Romano, and Eve Casanova. Friends believed Miss Casanova still was his wife. There had been no word of legal separation or divorce.

LAKE COUNTY JAIL WARDEN AND FINGERPRINT EXPERT IN CUSTODY OF POLICE

PROBE DILLINGER ESCAPE

Lew Baker And Ernest Blunk "Not Under Arrest" According To Deputy Attorney General

BULLETIN

CROWN POINT, Ind., Oct. 30 (UP)—Names of seven persons being held for questioning in John Dillinger's escape from the Lake county jail last March are:

Lew Baker, jail warden.

Ernest Blunk, deputy sheriff and fingerprint expert.

Harvey Keiser, Crown Point saloon keeper.

Archie Dunn, father-in-law of Keiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Garland, who formerly operated a filling station on the Lincoln Highway near Crown Point.

Mrs. Mary Boettcher, a partner of the Garlands.

Deputy attorney general Barce, who led state police in a series of swift raids on the homes of the suspects today, claims to have established that Dillinger paid $1,800 for his freedom.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Oct. 30, (UP)—Lew Baker, warden of the Lake county jail and Ernest Blunk, county fingerprint expert, were taken into custody by state police today for questioning in connection with John Dillinger's "toy pistol" escape from the jail last March 3. A third man was also in custody but his name was withheld. It was understood he is an attorney.

Deputy Attorney General J. Edward Barce, assigned by Gov. Paul V. McNutt to an investigation of the Dillinger break, accompanied the state police officers to the homes of the three men before daybreak.

He denied they had been placed under arrest.

Baker and Blunk were roused from their beds, ordered to dress and taken to the jail for questioning.

Last week Gov. McNutt announced that an expose of Dillinger's escape was "a matter of only a few hours" and that several arrests were expected.

Blunk was arrested last spring after a grand jury investigation of circumstances surrounding the escape. Also arrested was Deputy Sam Cahoon.

They were released, however, when their case was called before Criminal Court Judge William Murray, who announced there was not sufficient evidence to place them on trial.

Barce and the state police surrounded their activities with secrecy and refused to discuss the seizing of the two officers.

They were taken from their homes shortly before 6 a. m. by state police working under the direction of J. Edward Barce, deputy attorney general. A short time later four car loads of police carrying Baker and Blunk sped southward out of town.

Barce has been in Lake county for several months obtaining evidence which he claims will prove that Dillinger's sensational escape was made possible through a "payoff."

It is believed that Baker took the suspects to a hotel room, or some private house where an attempt will be made to obtain a confession.

The three men technically were not arrested but it was understood that charges will be preferred against them later.

Six witnesses also were said to have been taken into custody for questioning but their names were not revealed and it is believed they were being guarded in Lake county.

Holding of the three men fulfilled recent promises of Gov. Paul V. McNutt that details of Dillinger's startling escape would be exposed "at any time."

Barce's investigation has resulted in a reign of terror among the Lake county underworld, it was learned.

Investigators have learned that Dillinger felt he should be "rescued" by a mob from outside but had been overruled by a Chicago attorney. The attorney believed that such a sally would fail because of the extra precautions which had been taken to guard the desperado.

It was then that Baker entered the picture, Barce said. He had been

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to cure stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Uda Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Uda, Suite 66, Foot-Schultz Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. BRITAIN MORE FAVORABLE TO JAPANESE DEMANDS

LONDON, Oct. 30 (UP)—American hope for unequivocal British support against Japanese demands for naval equality seemed quashed today.

British naval delegates made it plain to the Americans at their meeting yesterday, it was learned, that they oppose Japan's demands for "global" allotment of naval tonnage as firmly as does the United States.

But both Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, foreign minister, it is known, showed decidedly more readiness than the United States to recognize the principle of Japanese equality.

Under a "global" tonnage allotment a nation would be free to build ships of such size and class as it desired within a specified total maximum of naval tons.

Tactically, the United States seemed increasingly isolated.

The Japanese have advised the British experts as to some technical points of their demands without giving the same information to the United States, and thereby have strengthened the American belief that they are eager to advance their talks with the British while leaving the United States delegates in suspense.

statement that "although Mr. Knott demanded specific wage increases for only 236 of the companies 2,300 employees, it would have been necessary to extend the wage increases to all employees."

Demands of the union, whose members include linemen, construction and maintenance men and power house employees, embrace wage increases, time and a half for overtime, double time for Sundays and several minor changes in working conditions.

Shannahan in a supplemental statement late yesterday expressed satisfaction with the governor's action. "Throughout our negotiations with Mr. Knott our paramount point was to keep utility service uninterrupted and to accomplish this we were willing to submit our dispute to arbitration," Shannahan said. "The action of Governor McNutt in appointing a board to study the problem has forestalled a statewide strike and therefore is most satisfactory to all of the companies."

LINDBERGH KIDNAPING SAID TO BE "ONE MAN JOB"

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Oct. 30 (UP)—New Jersey authorities have reached the conclusion that Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnaped and murdered by one man and Attorney General David T. Wilentz is confident he will be able to prove that man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Wilentz derided attempts of the defense to link Hauptmann's friend, late Isidor Fisch to the crime.

"If you can give me one iota of evidence that points to any one but Hauptmann," Wilentz said, "I like to have it."

Mrs. Hauptmann visited her husband again yesterday but without their 11-months old baby, Manfred. Sheriff John P. Curtiss revealed he would permit only one visit by the baby to his father each week.

"We can't be shaken up every day or two by visits from the baby," the sheriff said. "He was only in with Hauptmann two or three minutes and he was more upset than anybody else."

Mrs. Hauptmann said her husband constantly reiterates his innocence.

"He said Millard White's story about seeing him near the Lindbergh house was all false," she declared.

In New York, James M. Fawcett, defense counsel, announced it had obtained a statement from Millard White's brother, Edward, that the two had been constantly together near Hopewell during the time prior to and after the kidnaping and that neither had seen any strangers near the Lindbergh home.

TECTION SOUGHT FOR

DOMESTIC SERVANTS

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Domestic servants are entitled to the same legislative protections that workers in other vocations have been accorded, according to Marie Correll, women's department of labor.

Some women, numbering 1,400,000 more, are not covered by maximum hour laws in any state, and in one state do they come under provisions of a minimum wage law, said. Only two states accord accident insurance.

Questionnaires filled out by 217 domestic directors reveal that only of these agencies require employment of adult domestics to meet certain standards. Nineteen agencies such standards for workers of work for a livelihood and accept any conditions for a job.

This overcrowding of the labor market results in a drop in employment standards, lower pay and acceptance of bad living conditions, Miss Correll said.

Minimum standards for domestic servants proposed by Miss Correll include a maximum work week of 54 hours for workers living within the home; 48 hour week for those living elsewhere; one day or two half-days off per week; payment for overtime; one week vacation with pay after one year of service; private room; accident insurance carried by the employer and an employment contract covering the working agreement.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

HEAR PURDUE ENGINEER

John F. Keller, steel specialist from the engineering extension department of Purdue university, was the guest speaker for the high school convocation Monday morning. He began with a discussion of the elements of success. Success, he said, may be measured by many yardsticks. Some choose the yardstick that brings success by little efforts, while others

choose the yardstick that brings success through hard work. Whichever is chosen will depend largely upon the habits formed today.

There are five habits for which all of us should strive. The first is always to be on time. This is essential in the industrial and commercial worlds. The second habit, sometimes difficult, is to please those authorities over us. To do what they want us to do and not what we want to do.
Third, to train ourselves to be useful.
By using our hands we will become useful and helpful, and that is what we are learning to do today. It is being better tomorrow than today, and being better than anyone else that leads to success. The fourth habit to form is to avoid danger.
However, if we are angry, control ourselves by remaining quiet 24 hours. The last habit for us to form is that of "stick-to-it-ness." We must not put off doing things, but we must do them today.

During the remainder of the period Mr. Keller gave an illustrated talk on the subject of steel—showing by the use of slides the processes in the manufacture of steel. He also showed, by the spark method how iron and steel may be selected.

Mr. Keller's talk was highly instructive and enlightened many of the students concerning the importance and immensity of the steel industry.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

WOULD CREATE PAY ROLL TAX

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—A direct tax on industrial pay rolls lies at the heart of the new unemployment insurance plan now being worked out for presentation to the next congress.

The amount of the tax, the method of application and the channels through which it would be diverted to those who lose their jobs were said today to be still undetermined, but all of the plans being considered by the president's economic security committee were described as hinging upon a pay roll tax.

One of those familiar with the course of study said the pay roll tax had been regarded as the most equitable manner of obtaining funds for the operation of an unemployment insurance system.

Within the next two weeks the plan will be put into shape by the committee for presentation to President Roosevelt and subsequent transmission to congress. Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, after a talk with the president, said the finance committee, of which he is chairman, would convene early in December to begin work on the bill.

"I am confident that the next congress will pass an unemployment insurance bill," he said.

Since taxation is involved in the bill, however, it must be considered by the house ways and means committee and acted upon by the house before going to the senate. Any action by the senate committee prior to the assembling and organization of the house in January would be in the nature of a preliminary study. The ways and means committee cannot take any formal action until after congress meets.

Amounts that have been discussed in connection with the taxing of pay rolls for unemployment insurance have ranged from 1 to 5 per cent.
Burdett G. Lewis, director of the American Welfare association, told a state meeting in Denver a few days ago that 1 per cent would be the figure. He estimated it would raise $200,000,000. Secretary Perkins recommended a 5 per cent tax to the last congress.

The fund to be derived from such a tax would be used for the benefit of persons who lose their jobs after the insurance plan is put into effect.

Those now unemployed would not benefit under present plans.

The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Depew Goff Tuesday afternoon.

Bobby Kingston was a man of the people and the greatest showman since the days of Barnum. Everywhere he went, throngs gathered and cheered the man of the hour.
He sponsored every move that improved conditions of the ordinary citizen, such as the maintenance of the five cent fare, a seat for every student in school, playgrounds, parks and milk funds. He was a faultless dresser, set masculine style and attended every opening night at the theatre and every public function. In short, Bobby Kingston was a regular fellow and the people liked him.

He could draw more votes than any other man and was sure of election as often as he chose to run.
However, these were groups, who through jealousy or desire for publicity, would see the Mayor removed from office. One of these groups, headed by Crandall and knocked as the Civic Reform Committee, became peeved because the Mayor would not squander city funds on a duck pond which was not needed and which had no use save in the eyes of the committee.

To get even, this committee made charges against the Mayor and presented them to the Governor, demanding that the Mayor be removed from office.

"We charge that Mayor Kingston is incompetent, inefficient, and stupid, and we call upon the Governor to investigate the Mayor and his administration and remove him from office."

"Of course the press featured the story. It made good reading. Somebody took the committee seriously, forgetting that it was planning to use up the taxpayers' money and give them nothing in return. People seldom look at costs or count values.
As for the Mayor, he went on vice-cracking and paid little attention to the activities of the publicity hounds who would ride to tame at his expense. He knew they said nothing on him, and he did not propose to change his methods to satisfy a few irresponsible fanatics.

While the press was at City Hall trying to get a statement from the Mayor and those close to him, his honor was comfortably sleeping in his apartment, much to the disgust of his tailor who wished to try on a new suit. Even the noise of engineers in the next room adjusting and testing out microphones for a broadcast failed to excite the Mayor. He slept on peacefully, tired out after an all night party.

When all was in readiness for the broadcast, during which the Mayor would conveniently press a button that would open the new bridge, his secretary awoke him. The Mayor donned a flashy dressing gown and went out into the auditorium room to greet the radio men.

"Good morning boys," he smiled
as he greeted them.

"Your Honor, you've probably heard of me, I'm Ellery Sparks, the radio announcer."

The Mayor shook the lad's hand.
"Ellery, I've always considered it an honor to breathe the same air that you're on. Introduce the boys."

Sparks was confused. "Well, I really don't know their names," he confessed.

"Always know the names of the people who work for you—some day you may work for them," the Mayor vice-cracked.

After getting the names of each of the men and making them at home, Mayor Kingston, or Bobby as he was known throughout the city, turned to the announcer. "At your service, Ellery." The Mayor stepped before the microphone, but Sparks intercepted him.

"I've got to introduce you."

The Mayor smiled and bowed as he stepped away. "My error, I thought everybody knew me."

"Ladies and gentlemen of radio-land, a great occasion brings me before the microphone on this bright spring day, the occasion of the official opening of the new Hellespont Bridge, mighty span of steel and stone across the fairest of our rivers, a fitting tribute to our great city. And fittingly, too, the switch that throws this marvelous highway open to the public will be operated by our respected and beloved Mayor Kingston. Now I have the greatest pleasure to introduce his Honor, the Mayor."

Bobby stepped up to the microphone. "Friends, fellow citizens, greetings! Most of you are waiting for the opening of the new bridge. I shall not bore you with a long, prepared speech. I wish merely to salute the working man from the highest to those who by their brain and their brawn, have wrought this wonder of the world, and to thank them for their public service to our city, my city, your city. And so with reverent hand I—" he fumbled for the switch and missed it. He smiled and continued as he found the button. "And so with more than reverent hand, I throw the switch that sets this mighty artery in operation." With that he turned away and Sparks resumed the broadcast.

"The privilege of hearing the Mayor has come to you through the courtesy of Fink's Fishfood, makers of fine fish food. Your announcer is Ellery Sparks, the boy with that certain something. I now return you to our main studio."

When Bobby returned to his room, Hymie, his right-hand man, dashed in from City Hall. "Why didn't you answer the phone. Where have you been all morning? Do you know what's been happening while you've been here asleep?"

"Who's been asleep? I've been broadcasting—couldn't talk to you.
What's all the bombardment about?"

"The Civic Reform Committee have started a campaign to remove you from office."

Bobby was lying on the bed while Riley tied his tie. "Always the bearer of happy tidings, aren't you?"

"Now listen Bobby," Hymie began, and then finding that he was in Hymie's way "exasperatedly ex-

Lindsey Tries Political Comeback

Famed for his pioneering in the fields of juvenile delinquency treatment and the marital problem, Ben Barr Lindsey, formerly of Denver, Colo., is seeking a political comeback at Los Angeles, where he is a candidate for superior judge. On the Denver juvenile bench for 27 years, Judge Lindsey was ousted in a contested election result, and finally disbarred in 1928 after he had won prominence as an advocate of "companionate marriage". Now a resident of California, Lindsey hopes to return to the bench and again be able to broadcast his social philosophy to the world.

TEAS CHAMBER PUSHES PLAN TO DIVIDE STATE

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—Division of Texas, biggest state in the union, again is under lively discussion. Vice President John N. Garner, original advocate of dividing Texas, is silent now, but the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has presented arguments, for and against, in its official publication.

Legally the division is possible and may be accomplished with simplicity. Practically no one expects it within a quarter of a century at the least.

When the giant state, four times bigger than all New England, was admitted to the union, there was a provision that new states not exceeding four may with the consent of Texas be fashioned out of the territory and be entitled to admission.

Present agitation is merely for creation of one new state to be known as "West Texas."

As Vice President Garner explains

he situation, this can be done merely by an act of the legislature. The difficulty will be to get a majority of the legislature favorable to the division.

Any dividing line separating the state into east and west portions naturally have the 100th meridian as its northern starting point. That is the meridian that separates the Texas Panhandle from Oklahoma. Extended through the state the meridian strikes the Rio Grande west of Laredo. Used as a dividing line it would place only about a third of the area of Texas in "West Texas."

The western territory would have only about 15 members of the Texas house of representatives and three senators or one-tenth, instead of one-half, of the votes.

As Streamlined "Bullet Train" Set New Record

Rolling into New York City 56 hours and 55 minutes after leaving Los Angeles, the new Union Pacific's streamlined train came to a stop in the Grand Central station with a new transcontinental speed

like a comic motion picture being run backwards during the freshman class initiation. The young women walked backwards to their classes, dressed "as unattractively as possible," with their front teeth covered with black court plaster, their eyes blackened, and whistling constantly.

One hundred and seventy-five crated chickens were tossed from the vehicle, scampered through the neighborhood and many of them found their way into pots.

VENUE OPINION HANDED

DOWN BY JUDGE HUGHES

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—When Harry Martel fell asleep at the wheel of his truck and the machine struck a telegraph pole, he unwittingly furnished free chicken dinners to a score or more South End families. The state supreme court today held that once a case is venued from one circuit it cannot be taken back to the original court on a second change of venue.

Ruling in the appeal of Mrs. Margaret Kealing, Brazil, the high court issued a writ of mandate prohibiting the Clay circuit court from hearing her damage suit against the city of Brazil.

Mrs. Kealing filed her suit for damages in the Clay circuit court and later she was granted a change of venue to Sullivan county. The city then asked for a change of venue and when all counties were struck by both sides Clay county remained.

The Sullivan court ordered the case returned to Clay county over Mrs. Kealing's objections.

Asked for an alternative writ of mandate against the Clay county court the supreme court first issued a temporary writ and then made its order absolute after consideration of the briefs filed in the suit.

The supreme court in its ruling held that "when a change of venue is taken in a cause of action from any county and the cause is sent to another adjoining county; the other party takes a change from the second court, it then becomes the duty of the court in the absence of an agreement to submit to the parties a written of adjoining counties except from county from which the venue taken."

Judge James P. Hughes, who wrote the opinion, said "this is the only legal interpretation that can be given the statute."

The ruling was the first made regarding the interpretation of change of venue provisions of Indiana legal procedure.
